Welcome Comment

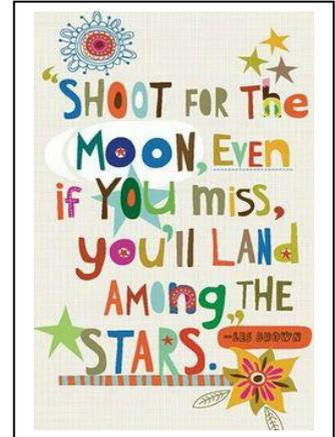

Good Morning Year 4! Thank you to those of you who have sent me an email with your fabulous work – I love seeing what you've been up to.

Today's active task: Have a go at this today. Enjoy!

English Task

After reading the next chapter, 'Stones from the Sky', you will notice there are lots of detailed character descriptions. To paint a picture for the reader, the writer cleverly weaves descriptions with actions so you can get a really clear image of what that character might look like. Have a go at describing the character I have sent over. Remember to not only describe how they look, but also how they move, speak and their actions. Page 110 in this chapter has a good example of this. Remember, show what the character is feeling and thinking, don't tell e.g. her eyes filled with tears rather than she was upset.

Thought for the day...

Maths Task

I've got some Mental Maths for you to have a go at today. No peeking at the answers! You can complete the questions on your squared paper or in your home learning book. How quickly can you answer the questions? You could set a timer to see and then mark them with the help of an adult. Keep a record of your time and score because we will be doing more of these over the course of the week. Don't panic if you aren't sure of something, just take your time and think it through.

Foundation Subject Task

Today, we are going to do some Philosophy! It will be different to the way we do it in class but perhaps you could come up with some questions to discuss with people at home. Start by watching the video, 'Pip'.

Once you have watched it, write down any questions you have about the events in the film. How do you think Pip feels at different parts of the film? Why? What was your favourite part? What qualities does Pip hold that make him so special? I know you won't be surprised to hear that I cried watching this Year 4! It's a beautiful film with an excellent message. What do you think the message is? I hope you enjoy it but you might need a tissue!

Any Further Guidance

Keep working hard Year 4! I had forgotten to tell you that we finally hit 100 books read on Get Epic in half term! However, I have just checked again and it has shot up to 142 books read! That's AMAZING! I can see which of you are reading and I have to say, one of you read for 156 minutes in one day! That's over 2 and a half hours! Keep up the hard work – you are brilliant! Enjoy the sunshine, Miss D 😊
